

REWARD

IVORY-BILLED WOODPECKER

ALIASES: THE LORD GOD BIRD, THE GRAIL BIRD, GHOST BIRD

APPROACH WITH CAUTION: THIS RARE WOODPECKER IS EXTREMELY ELUSIVE AND IS CONSIDERED AN ENDANGERED SPECIES

LAST SEEN IN THE BIG WOODS OF ARKANSAS

A $50,000 reward will go to the individual responsible for leading a project scientist to a living Ivory-billed Woodpecker at a nesting, roosting or foraging site.

No national wildlife refuges or wildlife management areas will be closed because of the presence of an Ivory-billed Woodpecker. No private land has been condemned to protect this species and there is no intention of doing so.

The land use of the area where the woodpecker is found is likely compatible with the bird's needs. If interested, private landowners with birds using their property may receive additional funding and technical assistance to benefit the woodpecker's habitat.

To collect the reward, you must provide video, photographic or other compelling information and lead a project scientist to a living wild Ivory-billed Woodpecker for verification.

Anyone with information leading to the safe location of a living Ivory-billed Woodpecker should call Allan Mueller at (501) 614-5092 or (800) 440-1477.
